NOVEMBER.

BY ALICE CAREY.

O, winds, ye are blowing too rough, too
Thrilling and chilling too soon the hours,
And the summer has not been long enough
For all your beauty, my flowers, my flowers!

Not half, not half of long enough
For all your beauty, my dear, dear flowers!
O, frosts, ye are falling too soon on th' leaf,
Duffing th' grasses, and dimming th' groves.

And the summer has been too brief, too brief
For all your cooling, my doves, my doves!
Too brief, the summer has been too brief,
For all your cooling, and wooing, my doves.

O, waters, hold to your fountains fast
Nor faithless fly from the sedge-sown nooks,
And the summer has gone too fast, too fast
For all your sweetness, my brooks, my brooks!

Too fast, the summer has gone too fast
For all your ringing and singing, my brooks!
O, clovers, clovers, keep to your red
And stick your little leaves grey with dew,
Too early the summer shades are fled,
For all your moaning, my insect crew—
Aye, all too early, summer has fled
For all your droning, my insect crew!

O, wane from your roundness now, fair moon
But make the land with your brightness, bright,
And the summer has gone too soon, too soon
For all the joy because of th' light—
For all the joy because of th' light—
For all my joy because of th' light!

Ah, colder, closer the shadow slides,
—And leaning toward the dusky stands,
Like one o'er reaching the icy tide—
To catch the touches of loving hands—
Aye, reaching to catch o'er the closing tides!
The last warm touch of the loving hands!

And the daisy will die, and the waning moon
Will fall in the sky, and the murmurous grove
Stand hushed, and my life will be o'er too soon.
For all my joy because of th' love,
Who made the land, and the leaves, and the moon,
And all that is fair, with the light of His love.
—Herald of Health.

POVERTY vs RICHES.
"The drunkard and the glutton shall come to poverty."—Bible.

The worst poverty to which a human being is subject in this world is the poverty of a mainly pride crushed out by that demon, perverted appetite. With this in time, come social, intellectual, and moral poverty and utter prostration. Without pecuniary or mental resources; with a body filled with filth and disease, and a mind completely wrecked, and at the mercy of every temptation, what can be worse than this? Lost, lost, lost! may be plainly read even in the face of the fallen man. This is poverty.

Riches consist not so much in lands and lucra as in vigorous health, a clear creative mind, a manly pride, with energy, invention, originality, and aptitude to do at the moment what the circumstances of the day and hour indicate should be done, and a willing spirit to do it. One, with all the faculties in action, who can readily turn his hand to anything is rich in mental resources if not in money, and poverty never frowns on him. "Hard times" come not so much from short crops, drouths, inundation, and even wars, as from "drunkenness and gluttony." Shut down the gates on dissipation, and bad as much of our legislation is, the people of our nation—any nation—would at once come into comparative plenty and comfort. Then, is not this the time and this the place to inaugurate a great re-form? We often meet legislators, politicians, merchants, and manufacturers wrangling about high tariffs and low tariffs, the crops and the currency, each crying "hard times," and each drinking a dollar's worth of wine, porter, beer, whisky, rum or brandy, and smoking or chewing another dollar's worth of useless—nay, injurious—tobacco, more or less, every day! "Oh, consistency! thou art a jewel!"

Let him who would have good times at once set about his own personal reformation, bringing his extravagant appetite into subjection, and govern it by the teachings of science, reason, and revelation.

Is the mill running on half time? Cut down the expenses to match, by cutting off bad habits. Have nothing to do with strikes in a free country. Is money scarce? If you economize, it will soon be more plentiful. Correct, first of all, wrong personal habits; make the most of your time and energies; develop every latent faculty; find out what there is in you, and of you; then put your intellectual shoulder to the great public wheel and help to roll it on in the direction of temperance, education, industry, religion. We need not look for wise or righteous legislation till we can elect wise, temperate and just men to office. So long as a bad man fills places of trust, so long shall the public suffer for the shame and disgrace of their actions, and our nation be subject to the ridicule of European emperors and paupers.

But, bad as we are in dissipation, poverty and crime—as a nation—we are not so bad as our neighbors, from whence much wickedness is imported. There is nothing in our political institutions inimical to the best condition of every one of its members. Here we have a right to think, a right to talk and a right to work just as we please, within the largest limits compatible with good order and the rights of our neighbor. Education is free in most of the states; religion is free; and land

INDEPENDENT.

IN Peter's Musical Monthly for November there are no less than about a dozen pieces of music, vocal and instrumental. Several of these when in sheets cost fifty cents each, while in this shape they can all be had for twenty-five cents. Here is beautiful new music cheap as any body can wish for, and considerable musical literature besides. J. L. Peters, N. Y.

History of Woman is a new work just issued by Henry Howe, of Cincinnati—the author, L. P. Brockcutt. It is a small octavo of 448 pages, with 21 full page engravings. The author goes as far back in the history of humans as the books warrant and tells his reader the condition of the sex from that time to the present—of course, in a very general way; for in a work of that size full particulars could not be squeezed. The whole drift of the work, so far as argument is concerned, and there is considerable of that directly and indirectly, is pointed against what is called women's rights, not only politically, but professionally also. To us many of his objections partake of the nature of burlesque or ridicule, and we think the writer will entirely fail to convince anybody who favors the woman's rights movement, of the justice of his conclusions.

The American Odd Fellow.—This Magazine (the official organ of the order) for November contains an excellent original story, entitled the Death Plot; together with an attractive variety of miscellaneous matter of general interest, and a vast amount of valuable information for the fraternity. It should be taken by every Odd Fellow. The American Odd Fellow will next year be greatly enlarged and improved, when the price will be $2.50 a year, or $1.25 a volume. Published by John W. Orr, No. 96 Nassau street, New York.

Health and Home which has now nearly completed its first year, and during that time won a larger circulation and more general commendation than any similar weekly that preceded it, now offers to subscribers the advantage of two months subscriptions free. Every person subscribing now will get the numbers for November and December free, and their subscriptions will extend to January 1st, 1871. Single subscriptions $4 per year, or a club of three, all sent at once, $9. Address Pottingill, Bates & Co., 37 Park Row, N. Y.

Whitney's Musical Guest.—The November number of this splendid Musical Monthly opens with an interesting article entitled a Forgotten One. It also contains the usual amount of new and choice music. Songs—Sweet Corn Doll, She's such a Pretty Blonde, Silver Ripple Polka, Mazurka. With this number commences the third volume of the Guest: now is the time to subscribe and receive the complete volume. Terms $1 per year. Address W. W. Whitney, Toledo, O.

Demorest's Monthly.—A splendid Christmas number. Its reliable fashions, its numerous full sized patterns, its admirable illustrations, and great variety of useful reading matter, renders it by far the most desirable magazine of the day. It is also the cheapest magazine at $3 per annum, with a handsome premium. Published at 333 Broadway, N. Y.

Young America.—This sprightly juvenile is constantly improving. A new and most interesting feature consists of a beautiful chromo series of Audubon's American birds, which cannot fail to please those for whom it is intended. $1.50 a year with a premium. Published at 333 Broadway, N. Y.

PITTSBURG, FORT WAYNE & CHICAGO RAILROAD COMPANY.
From the annual report of the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne & Chicago company, for the year ending June 30, 1869, as filed at the office of Gen. George Wright, Commissioner of railroads and telegraphs, we glean the following items:

The length of the main line is about 468 miles; branches 32 miles; entire line and branches 500 miles; main line in Ohio 251 miles; branches in Ohio 84-10 miles; side tracks 46 miles; total length of iron in Ohio 306 miles. There are an aggregate length of 4,515 feet, with an aggregate length of 4,515 feet, and five iron bridges with an aggregate length of 196 feet. There on the line 210 locomotives, 95 first class cars, 51 express and baggage cars, 3,134 freight cars and 108 other cars. There are employed in operating the road in Ohio 1,785 persons. There were carried during the year 1,626,289 passengers, and 606,844 tons of through freight and 607,785 tons of local freight. There were consumed in Ohio during the year 49,539 cords of wood and 45,544 tons of coal.

The expenses for the year were as follows: Maintenance of way and structures, $1,295,669 89; Motive power and cars, $1,998,972.74; Transportation expenses, $1,395,951.51; General expenses, $989,812.41. Total expenses of operating the road, $5,080,496.55. The earnings are reported as follows: Transportation of passengers, $2,328,683.47; transportation of freight, $3,391,520.10; mail and express $217,878.50; from all other sources, $101,813.70. Total earnings, $5,239,395.77. Net earnings, $3,155,899.22. The amount of capital stock paid in is $11,500,000. The following are the officers of the company, all residents of Pittsburgh: George W. Cass, President; Thomas D. Messler, Asst. President; E. M. Hutchinson, sec'y; J. P. Henderson, treasurer; H. A. Gardner, chief engineer; J. N. McCullough, general superintendent; J. P. Farley, auditor; E. R. Myers, general ticket; Wm. P. Shinn, general freight agent.

The matter of a new line of Railroad from this city via Woodville, Tiffin, New London, Wooster, Massillon, Canton and New Lisbon, Ohio, and Beaver, Penn., to Pittsburgh, was brought before our railroad trustees, on Saturday last, by Hon. Martin Welker and Gen. Harvey Howard, of Wooster. These gentlemen expressed great confidence in both the feasibility and the importance of the project, and gave assurance of strong local support. Active steps are already being taken toward the organization of a company for its prosecution, and an early survey is regarded as certain.

The Pittsburgh connection, important as it would be to the road and to Toledo, is not the only advantage to be derived from it. At that point it is designed to connect with the Conneville road, being a branch of the Baltimore and Ohio from Cumberland, Md., to be completed this year. The distance between Toledo and Pittsburgh would by this route shortened some 25 miles, while that to Baltimore would be reduced from 625 to 550, being a saving of 75 miles.

The importance to Toledo of a good Pittsburgh connection has frequently been referred to in these columns; furnishing as it would, not only improved advantages to the already large trade of the two cities, but also opening to us the choice at that point of the three important markets of New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore. Hence, we hardly need express our interest in the project here proposed, which has the additional high recommendation of placing Toledo in connection with several of the most important points in northern Ohio, and opening to its most valuable coal facilities.—Toledo Commercial.

PRESBYTERIAN REUNION.
The proposed basis of reunion has been adopted, at this date, by eighty-three new school Presbyteries, which number is more than two thirds of the whole number (113) of endorsed jurisdictions in that branch of the church. In all the accepting Presbyteries, but two votes were cast against the basis—one at Albany and one in the District of Columbia.

The number of old school Presbyteries required for the same ratification is ninety six, and more than that number have already announced their formal assent to the proposed reunion. In these Presbyteries, the vote has also been for the most part unanimous, the negative votes never exceeding one fourth of the whole.

It is fair to presume that such Presbyteries, of either branch, as may not yet have taken official action upon the issue, will now hasten to arrange themselves in favor of the reunion which even their negative voices could no longer arrest. For the honor of a heartily united Church, the movement from either side toward a complete fusion of both organizations will not fail to present an unanimity more cordial than has, perhaps, ever marked the experience of any religious denomination.

The consummation of the reunion is to take place in this city, November 10th, and will not fail to present scenes of the deepest interest to the Protestant world.—Pittsburg paper.

PROTECTION FROM FROST.
Instead of covering up plants in the evening, wait until morning, and then cover if there has been frost. But be sure and cover early enough so that the sun does not strike the plants. The object is, to get the frost out gradually; this will save fruit and frozen vegetation. Why it is so, it will not do to inquire now; it is sufficient to know that such is the case. Hence, a cloudy morning is favorable; this will prevent all harm, even if the frost is a severe one, as was, the case last fall, when fruit was frozen hard on the trees, so that it rattled if put together. But the sky was clouded, and to the surprise of every one, there was not the least hurt. The cure was so decided that it was reported in the papers.

Fruit and vegetation on the west side of buildings, or shaded by trees, is therefore safe. That exposed to the sun wants protection, and nothing is better than white sheets or white cloth of any kind, while reflecting the rays of the sun, and thus retarding the thawing. But anything will do, care being taken not to break the crisp, frozen vegetation. Thus the trouble of covering up in the evening when there is no frost during the night, is avoided.

A Novel Proposition.—Dr Sage has discovered a sure and speedy remedy for Catarrh, and the proprietors offer $500 for a case of that loathsome disease that he cannot cure. It cures Catarrh in all its stages, forms and varieties, with unerring certainty. If your druggists do not keep this remedy take no other, but enclose sixty cents to the proprietor, R. V. Pierce, M. D. Buffalo, N. Y., and the remedy will reach you by return mail. For sale by most druggists everywhere.

THE STORY OF A SHIRT—CLAY DEAN'S.

We have all of us heard the Song of the Shirt, and most of us know it by heart and more of us should pay heed to what it so nobly teaches. That was by Hood, and the best thing that Thomas ever gave the world. Now we have the story of a shirt, of entirely different nature and on a widely different subject. This is by the editor of the Winteret Sun, is founded on facts, 'is facts,' and has to do with the sweet smelling Henry whose last name is Clay Dean. It runs thus: "Years ago, when Mr. Albert West was one of the leading democrats of this country, Henry Clay Dean came to Winteret to make a democratic speech. Mr. West, who had an unfaltering aversion to dirty shirts, informed the committee that Dean could not speak unless he put on a clean shirt. Dean was the possessor of only one of those useful articles, and that was on his back. The only remedy was to borrow, and Mr. West was the only democrat whose physical proportions were sufficiently developed to require a shirt long enough to fit Dean. Henderson Clay was accordingly, encounsed in the banker's fine linen, made his speech and departed in triumph, bearing off a five-dollar shirt belonging to Mr. West. That shirt was never heard from until the fall of 1863, when Dean again came to Winteret to make another speech. That time he took up his abode with our genial friend, George W. Seavers. Now, George has a cleanly desire to see folks look tidy, and Dean's shirt was an abomination in his eyes. He therefore suggested to the orator that he would do well to get on the inside of clean shirt before addressing the people. Dean acquiesced in the theory of the change, but lacked the clean garment necessary to put it in practice. George promptly tendered him one of his own. Dean accepted the offer, and made his speech arrayed in George's best shirt. Dean weighs about three hundred; George about one hundred and sixty. The consequence of this disparity in size made it impossible for George's shirt to fit Dean if worn in the ordinary manner. But the orator was full of expedients, and by putting on the shirt wrong end down and tail end up he made the rifle, astonishing his hide by bringing it in contact with clean linen, electrified the audience by the size of his shirt collar, and at the close of his address continued his travels to another point, taking our friend's shirt with him. Mr. Dean left his soiled garment in the room, and when, preparatory to being washed, it was carried out on a chip into the sunlight, there, on one corner of its narrative, appeared the name—Albert West. Eleven years had that shirt an abode on the back of the orator. The rebellion, the total eclipse, the Pacific railroad, the election of three presidents—all had passed away before our eloquent hero had found time to change his shirt; and when the change was made he kindly returned it to the spot where he got his first clean shirt to invest in his second one."—Des Moines, Iowa, Register, October 17.

Cards were invented in 1391 by Jaquemin Gruenour, to amuse King Henry VI. of France, who at that time was mad. The ace was made the best card in the pack, being derived from the French word "Argent," signifying money, and to show that a king could not get along without it, as a meenal card backed by the ace would triumph over a king. The kings were called David, Alexander, Caesar, and Charlemagne; the queens were named Argine, Rachel, Pallas, and Judith; the valets or knaves represented the squires to the kings, and were named Launcelot, Ogier, Renard and Hector; the tens, nines, etc., represented the foot soldiers. The ace of clubs was so named and formed to represent a clover leaf, and to signify to the king that a good general would always encamp his army where pasturage was plenty. The ace of spades represented the halberds carried by the foot soldiers; the ace of diamonds represented the heads of the arrows used by the cross bow men; and the ace of hearts represented the courage of the knights and soldiers. But what amount of anguish, agony, and despair have grown out of the use of these bits of printed card board when used by gamblers. Games of chance, tricks, and sleight of hand have caused many a robbery, murder and suicide. In itself, card playing may not be a sin—except in loss of time—but is it wise?

An imaginative writer says:—"Woman is compounded of three articles—sugar, tincture of arnica, and soft soap. Sugar, because of the sweetness apparent in woman—alas! that in some it should have acidulated into strong domestic vinegar—arnica, because women is to be found that quality of healing and soothing after the wounds which afflict us men in the great battle of life; and soft soap for reasons too obvious to need specification."

California has developed a new industry. It ships bales of chapparal leaves to China, where they are boxed up and sent back as tea.

THE AMERICAN CENSUS.

At the Local Science Convention, at New York, on Thursday, Gen. Garfield read a paper on the census, in which the following occurred:

The American census should furnish a muster roll of the American people, showing, as far as it is possible by figures to show, their vital, physical, intellectual and moral power. It should provide us with an inventory of the nation's wealth, and show us how it is invested. It should exhibit the relation of population to wealth, by showing the distribution of the one and industries of the other. The ninth census of the United States will be far more important than any of its eight predecessors. Since 1850, in spite of its losses, the nation has doubtless increased in population and in wealth.

CLAY'S BE CIVIL.
"My young friend," said a gentleman on horseback, one day, to a lad who was standing near a well, "will you do me the favor to draw a pail of water for my horse, as I find it rather difficult to get off?"

Instead of giving a gruff reply, as many boys would do, the boy drew the water and gave it to the horse. His manner was so pleasant and cheerful that the stranger, delighted with his spirit, asked his name and residence, and then, after thanking him rode on.

The good natured lad thought no more of his act of civility, till, some months later, he received a letter from a gentleman, offering him a clerkship in his store. The offer was accepted. The lad prospered, and finally became chief magistrate of a large city.

Thus you see that little act of civility to a stranger was the first round in the ladder by which that boy climbed to honor and wealth. Now, I do not say that civility will always lead to such honor, but I say that it always raises its possessor in the opinion of others and in his own self respect. Civility is an ornament all should possess.

A WIFE IN DISTRESS.
"Pray tell me, my dear, what is the cause of those tears?"
"Oh, such a disgrace!"
"What is it, my dear, don't keep me in suspense?"
"Oh, I have opened one of your letters, supposing it to be addressed to myself. Certainly it looks more like Mrs. than Mr."

"Is that all? What harm can there be in a wife opening her husband's letters?"
"No harm in the thing itself, the contents. Such a disgrace!"
"Who has dared to write me a letter and for my wife to read?"
"Oh, no, it is couched in the most chaste and beautiful language. But the contents?"

Here the wife buried her face in her handkerchief and commenced sobbing aloud, while her husband eagerly caught up the letter and commenced reading the epistle that had nearly broken his wife's heart. It was a bill from the printer for three years' subscription for the newspaper.

MRS. PARINGTON SHOPPING.
"Come Ike and get your basket and let's propel to town."
They entered a fashionable millinery establishment.
"How do you sell pitators?"
"Do you mean, madam, to insult me?"

"I would like to consult you about a couple of pecks. Ike, bring along your basket."
"But, madam, we don't keep potatoes; who told you we sold potatoes?"
"Your advertisement?"
"Our advertisement? It certainly says no such thing."

"But it does. Ike, cum here. Did n't you read it to me the other night, about this new military store having conceived a new assortment of pitators from New York?"

Ike nods.
"There, now, you need n't be skeered; I ain't no revenue deceiver!"
Milliner smiles.
"Madam, you have made a mistake. Our advertisement announces our new article of female apparel with which young ladies, whose bosoms are not fully developed, are enabled to beautify their forms, and render perceptible the affectionate emotions of their loving hearts. Hence they are called pitators."

"La, me! your advertisement didn't say about barades enveloping female bosoms to show their notions of affection. Now, if you denounce them as bosom pitators you would be more intelligent. Well, I'm arter stomach pitators, which I have much affection for, besides, my bosom is paralized enough, and I pretend for the future, to keep it so without putting any pitators in it any how. Good bye, Mrs. Milliner. Come Ike, let's tramp."

ROBCK'S STOMACH BITTERS.
Some time ago, Dr. Robck, of Cincinnati, through his agent in this place, J. A. Maxwell, placed in our hands a bottle of his Stomach Bitters, designed for dyspepsia, to give tone to the stomach, as a preventive against the bilious complaint, incident to the western country; and, upon using it, we regard it as second to none in America or abroad. To be able to state confidently that the bitters are a certain cure for dyspepsia and like diseases, is to the proprietor a source of unalloyed pleasure. It removes all morbid matter from the stomach, purifies the blood, imparts renewed vitality to the nervous system, giving it that tone and energy so indispensable for the restoration of health. The numerous acknowledgments of its superior excellence and beneficial results have assured the proprietor that it cannot but prove a great cure to the afflicted, and impart vitality to the thorough system. We advise those who use Bitters, to use none but Robck's which can be obtained at J. A. Maxwell's drug store, in Upper Sandusky.

A Weak Stomach can be greatly strengthened by the use of Whitteley's Dyspepsia and Sick Headache cure. It is the great remedy for all bowel complaints.

Massillon, Wednesday, Nov. 17.

Constitutional Amendment—YES.

DEATH AT WORK.—Since the death of the distinguished man of wealth, Mr. Peabody, to whom reference was made last week, there are the names of other eminent personages now to be added, who have just passed off the stage of mundane existence. First among these is

Gen. John E. Wood, who died at his residence on the 10th inst., at the age of nearly four score. Gen. Wood was a prominent military man in his day, and at times held some of the most conspicuous positions in our country in that capacity.

Robert J. Walker, died on the 11th inst., at something over three score years. He was a politician of the democratic school years ago, and held high places in the government, once being secretary of the treasury, appointed to that place under Polk's administration. During the late rebellion Mr. W. warmly advocated the union cause, and gave his talents and influence in favor of the right. Among his political theories was that of free trade, which he advocated with zeal and ability.

Amos Kendall, another notable man in his day, and for nearly forty years a prominent man in political and governmental affairs, died a few days since, aged about 75 years. He was a fast friend of Gen. Jackson, and contributed his full share to advance the claims of old Hickory for the presidency, and sustained him while there—for Mr. K. was a leading democrat. He held the position of post-master general, to which place he was appointed in 1835 by Gen. Jackson. But the most active and influential part of Mr. K.'s life was when he as editor advocated Gen. Jackson's claims to the presidency. He was then a power in the land, and to his vigor and ability did the party with which he affiliated owe much of its strength. It was during his official career that the pro-slavery party, of which he was a zealous supporter, took the liberty of seizing the mails and postoffices, by government authority, to search out and publicly burn anti-slavery papers and letters, under the charge that they were incendiary documents. That was done at Richmond and other places in the days where it required some fortitude to profess sympathy for liberty and the great central sentiment of the immortal Declaration.

It is thus that within a few days have the papers chronicled the deaths of some half dozen distinguished men. Ex-president Pierce, senator Fessenden, Walker, Wood, Kendall and Peabody are all gone.

Among the latest foreign news is an account to this effect, that within a short time something like one hundred men and women were in a silver mine in Mexico, when a large portion of the roof suddenly fell upon them, and instantly crushed them to death. It is terrible to contemplate such a calamity, but our times are becoming familiar with recitals of destruction to whole hordes of human beings, suddenly. The great Avondale disaster is yet fresh, but even since that have occurred the Indianapolis tragedy, the burning of the steamer Stonewall, and now comes an account of the Mexican calamity. These four catastrophes took off, in the aggregate, something like five hundred lives. Truly may we say that death is at work.

PRESBYTERIAN REUNION.—Something like 40 years ago a feud took place in the once united and strong Presbyterian church, having its origin in the members taking different views of doctrinal points and ecclesiastical polity. So strong did the controversy become that, like Abraham and Lot, the two parties agreed to separate—at least they did divide, and since that time at body of Christians has been known as the Old and New School Presbyterians—each having its distinct and complete organizations, from the local presbyteries up to their general assemblies. Time has worn off the sharp edges of these differences between the contending parties, and within the last five or six years efforts have been making for reconciliation and reunion. The two general assemblies met at Pittsburgh the other day on that business, and the result of their deliberations was that both parties came fraternally together. By the description in the papers it was a most pleasant gathering, and now there is but one Presbyterian church—Old and New School designations being done away with. It is one of the good signs of the times.

Since the great gold excitement in Wall st., New York, several weeks ago, quite a number of mishaps have occurred to those actively participating in the terrible conflict. Several of the men lost so much money in this gambling operation that they have since become crazy, and others were so affected as to lose their lives. But a few days since a Mr. Duell, at Cleveland, who was a heavy loser, committed suicide in consequence of losses sustained.

A big lawsuit is about to take place at Akron, or maybe has commenced, between Mr. McFary, the great English capitalist, and Jay Gould. The subject of controversy is said to be a violation of Ohio laws by the managers of the A. G. W. R. I.

It is said the Irish smokers talk of throwing away their cob pipes, in Ireland, and this dispense with the use of tobacco, in order to dodge paying revenue to England, on this plant. One of the best things they can do—the next thing will be to abolish the whisky drinking business, and that would raise the Irish people a hundred per cent, in the estimation of the nations.

MASSILLON, Nov. 9, 1869.
MESSRS. EDITORS:—I have read the communication in your last issue from Mr. President Patterson, of the Railway Passenger's Accident Assurance Co., of Hartford, Ct., and I beg to assure him, that as soon as I can dispose of some engagements which occupy my time to the exclusion of everything else, I shall pay my respects to him and his company.

It is a needless task, I admit, this having anything to do with a souless corporation, by way of exposing its frauds, particularly one that will sell a woman an accident insurance policy under false pretences, but as this Mr. President Patterson courts investigation by the reply he makes to my former article, I intend he shall have it as soon as time will permit. Mean while let women who travel by railway be on their guard in purchasing accident insurance policies issued by the above named company. HASWELL.

MASSILLON, Nov. 16, 1869.
MR. EDITOR:—I have got my senses together. My snout well, and over my aspre with the Peak family last Saturday night, and now if not 2 late for this week's paper I will try in my humble way 2 thro a little more lito on the Danse.

There was 9 of us jolly soles started for the Danse in Kindred invited. We got up the hill without meeting with any accident till we got 2 the 1st grocery and there our trouble commenced. We couldn't get anything 2 drink, & had to go for our big black bottle which was still nearly full, and after with we again started for the Danse, arrivin in good time. All hands bein dry, again we found a grocery close by, with we all visited. Some of us took all and some a pretzel and some whisky, mome time we was a saven or Bottle for the Fiddlers which they soon discovered in the pocket of a long tale cote with my friend wore, he bein Bottle Holder.

After the fiddlers had enticed our bottle 7 of the first 9 ajourned 2 the grocery, bein dry again, 2 get somthin 2 drink, and on comin back we found the doors locked on us. And then our trouble commenced in earnest. We wanted them 2 open the dore and they would not. we then went round 2 the winds and asked them agane to open the dore but they would not. I then jumped up in the windo 2 krowd in & it was there I got my snout punched, then war commenced. We then held a kounsel of war 2 decide wat 2 do. Thereupon one of our kounsel made a moshun 2 smash the dore in if we would stuck 2 him, which was agreded 2. another moved 2 kill them off, kill them off, which wasent agreded 2. We then moved upon the dore armed with the same Black Bottle and smashed it in, (not the Bottle but the dore) and then retired in good order 2 our first line of works and aimed ourselves with stn arl then made a grand charge, with myself at the head of the kolumn. It was a glorious charge & don in good stile. There was only two dissections in time of Battle. It was a safe battle as there was no wounded & none killed. Oein 2 the effects of the Black Bottle & the visits 2 the grocery, we was all so drunk we kould not hit a windo. (I was wounded in the snout.) We then disbanded and every man went 2 his own home till about four o'clock P. M., next day, wen we agane reassembled at the mays Office by invitashun of the Marshall. we was then & there fined fore dollars & twenty five cents each, for goin to Danse with out an invitashun, Wich goes 2 prove that when ever a large quantity of whisky suffere there is always somthin else got to suffer with it—it never goes alone. With good intentions,
I remain, yours,
DEUREN TREMENS.

On the night of Oct. 23d at Rondont, N. Y. Joseph Wood, a carpenter by trade, in a fit of drunken jealousy, during a protracted spree, killed his wife by striking her eleven fearful blows with a hatchet, and then ended his own miserable life, by nearly severing his head from his body, with a razor. And yet, notwithstanding the almost daily repetition of scenes like this, in one section of the country, or another, men will continue to drink whisky! Is it not passing strange?—Beacon.

President Sloan of the Cincinnati, Sandusky & Cleveland railroad in his annual report says:
That while Massachusetts has about 240 persons to the square mile and, Ohio only about 60; that Ohio is capable of sustaining a larger population to the square mile than any of the New England states, we can form some anticipation of the probable increase of the local business of this road within the next few years. This is more apparent when by reference to the statistics of the country through which our road runs, we see that they are increasing in population about business at the rate of nearly nine per cent. per annum.

This fact will give an idea to those who fancy that too many railroads are spoken of hereabouts. It shows with the conclusiveness of figures that there are not too many roads yet, and that new roads will succeed if properly located.—Beacon.

DIED.—At his residence in this city, on Wednesday evening the tenth inst., JESSE HECKMAN, Esq., in the 75th year of his age. At the time of his death he was one of the Justices of the Peace of Perry township.

Justice Heckman was born at Shippensburg, Penna. in the month of May, 1795. He died at twelve years he was thrown entirely upon his own resources, and for the remainder of his long and useful life sustained himself and families—having been twice married, without any aid whatever beyond the labor of his hands, excepting the emoluments of the office of Justice of the Peace in this township. There are few men any where whose early struggles were more strongly marked than those of Justice Heckman.

As soon as he was old enough he commenced driving a six horse team across the Alleghenies. Abandoning that he served an apprenticeship as a bricklayer and plasterer, married and moved to the new city of Canton in 1822, where he resided until 1829 when he removed to Massillon, which had been laid out three years, where he resided until his death. In 1832 he was left a widower with two children, one of whom a daughter resides in Benton's Port, Iowa; the other, a son, is supposed to have been captured and murdered during a party of guerilla in Mexico during the war with that republic in 1840. In 1844 he was married to Miss Jane Taylor, a daughter of Col. Isaac Taylor, one of the early settlers of Tuscarawas township, who will be remembered by the older residents of this city, and whom he buried some seven years since, by which marriage he had five children, four of whom survive him: Isaac T. Heckman, Esq., of Toledo, and a daughter and two sons who reside here.

In 1844 he was elected a Justice of the Peace and held the office by successive elections until his death, with the exception of two years. The acquaintance of the writer with the deceased commenced with his residence at Canton, and which ripened into a warm friendship on his becoming a resident of Massillon, and was never disturbed by any circumstance whatever. While his education was limited he brought to bear practical common sense in all matters to which his attention was called, and was rarely mistaken in applying the law to the facts of the numerous cases that he examined judicially during his tenure of a citizen's service in this city. The amount of business done by him was really immense, and the record he has left is one of which any judge of any court in the length and breadth of the land might be proud. As a patient friend, and neighbor his place cannot be supplied. A public officer he will be remembered as being difficult to determine where he will be missed most. For fifty years he was a member of the Presbyterian church, giving attention to its business wants, and never absent from any of its proceedings, aiding it with his means, his presence, and influence. As agent of the Stark County Bible Society, he traveled on foot through the western tier of states, as a traveling agent, more than forty years ago. On the organization of the church in the village of Massillon he was one of its elders, and as such discharged every duty to the entire acceptance of the church and congregation. In the Sabbath School and Temperance Society, he was a most efficient and useful member. On the 31st ult., having, as he supposed, so far recovered from an attack of intermittent fever as to be able to attend Divine service in the morning, he went and the result was a relapse, accompanied with congestion of the lungs, which was more than his system could bear. From the first it was feared that he could not survive, and on the evening of Wednesday of the following week he passed away peacefully. In a full age, like a stock of corn coming in his season.

The path of the just is as a shining light that shineth more and more unto the perfect day. —Cov.

The song Messenger tells the story of how a chorister made $500 by singing the Battle Cry of Freedom.

I was chorister at Dr. C's church in O., New York, when this famous song appeared. I am sorry to say our church had the reputation of being coppers, and deserved it, too, with the exception of a very few, who by contrast seemed to be the staunchest kind of union men. One of these, Col. J. E. L., who never could get enough of the new song, came across me one Saturday afternoon, and slapping me on the shoulder, said: 'I'll give you $500 if you'll sing the Battle Cry of Freedom during the service in church to-morrow.' I thought this too great an offer to be declined, as I knew he was not only abundantly able but just the man to do such a thing; so I set to work to arrange for it. This was soon accomplished, and it was kept an entire secret from all but the few that were to join me. O, I forgot to say that I asked one of the deacons who was all right if I had better do it. 'Yes,' says he, 'sing it if it drives every criniter out of the shed.' So, at the time I had chosen when we were to sing a voluntary 'Yes, we'll rally round the flag' came thundering down on the coppers of the congregation. Such a commotion you never saw. The union men clapped their hands in the most scriptural manner; the others raged but it was no use; the thing was done, and could not be undone, and the union cause received a new and vigorous impulse—and I a check for five hundred dollars.

A severe rebuke of intemperance is administered by Bishop Bayley, of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Newark, N. J. Addressing the clergy, the Bishop says: 'I am compelled to call your attention in a particular manner to the dreadful sin of drunkenness. This horrible vice, so destructive alike to body and soul, as we all know, making the most fearful ravages among our people. It may be said to be the chief cause of the sins they commit, and of all social evils and discomforts under which they labor. I am determined to make use of the most severe measures against all who are addicted to this scandalous and destructive vice; and, if they continue in the practice of it, they must do it as outcasts from the Catholic Church, who have no right to the name of Catholic while they live, nor Christian burial when they die.'

At the late election, the vote of a light mulatto, by the name of Silas Wills, was refused by the trustees of Mad River township, Clarke County, under the democratic visible admixture law of last winter, whereupon the said Wills brought suit against the said trustees, in the court of common pleas of Clarke county, the result being a verdict for $275 in favor of the plaintiff.—Beacon.

A San Francisco paper has found out that the Pacific railroad is not an unmixt good. It has been the means of introducing sharper competition into almost every department of trade, and local interests have thereby been injured. Some manufacturers in San Francisco have already been compelled to discharge half their hands. The goods they produced can be brought from the eastern states and sold at a lower rate than will the afford California manufacturer a living benefit.

Cabbages, if not marketable at remunerative prices make excellent milk producing fodder. Put them in the barn cellar or in trenches for winter use. All decayed leaves must be stripped off and given to the hogs or the milk will taste.

Potatoes kept in pits in the open ground must have free ventilation at first, which should be reduced as the weather grows colder, and just before the ground freezes up solid, the heaps must have their last coat of earth, and not before.

'Did you ever give a boy a theatre check?' inquired Jones the other night. 'Never.' 'Ever heard of its being done?' 'No.' 'Well, it never was done but once. A great many years ago a man coming out of the theatre gave a boy a check. The boys heard of it, and they have been waiting for that man ever since.'

There was an old story of a Lord Mayor of London who went out courting in a three cornered hat, jack boots, and arrayed with a sword. On hearing a cry of 'The hare comes, the hare comes!' his lordship, drawing his sword, said, 'Let it come; I thank my God I fear it not.'

II Gaylord, treasurer of the Avondale relief fund, acknowledges receipts to November 4th, of $81,237 50. This fund has been disposed of as follows: Deposited in the Wilkesbarre bank on call at 5 per cent. $19,906.00; paid to widows and orphans, $10,723.10; invested in U S bonds, $28,943.75; balance in hand, $12,665.05, to be invested in a few days in railroad bonds.

Two young ladies in a certain house in town the other night were heard singing as follows:

'Oh for a man!
'Oh for a man!
'Oh for a man—sion in the sky!
Before they could get and further two young bloids outside responded:
'Oh for a gal!
'Oh for a gal—lon of old rye.'

A married lady being asked to waltz gave the following sensible and appropriate answer: 'No, thank you, sir; I have hugging enough at home.'

Dickens says: I have known vast quantities of nonsense talked about bad men not looking up in the face. Don't trust the idea. Dishonesty will stare honestly out of countenance any day in the week if there is anything to be got by it.

He whom God protects, to him even a spider's web becomes a wall; but from whom He withdraweth His hands, unto him thick walls becomes as cobwebs.

An old sea captain used to say that when abroad he did not care how he dressed, because nobody knew him. And he did not care how he dressed at home, because everybody knew him.

Vice-president Colfax says: 'Twenty five years' experience has convinced me that the best, wisest and safest rule for all, young and old, and even more especially those in public life, is total abstinence from all that can intoxicate.'

Traces of ancient cities arranged in streets running at right angles to each other, but covered several feet deep with sand, have been discovered in Nevada. The stones had evidently been cut with hard tools, although their forms were nearly destroyed by the lapse of centuries.

Massillon, O., August 11, 1869.

Received per hands of Jas. H. Hunt, agent of Security Life Insurance and Annuity Co., of N. Y. Two Thousand Dollars for insurance on the life of The A. Ricks. I take great pleasure in bearing testimony to the promptness with which the Security pays its losses.

WAL. F. RICKS, Adm'r.

This company has demonstrated time and again the value of life insurance by distributing among the widows and orphans of

175 Members the sum of $500,000.

Yet its losses in proportion to the number insured and amount of insurance has been few and light, according to a compilation from the last published report of the Massachusetts Insurance Commissioner, showing the ratio of claims by death to policies issued during the last 12 months in the leading life insurance companies, thus:

Name of Company.	Ratio.	Person Ins.
Mass Mutual.....	21 one death in every 476	do 500
N. England Mut.....	20 one do do	do 313

The old companies are ever harping upon the ratio of their expenses and proportion to business done; whereas, in every person seeking insurance the fact that the profit and loss account is very important. Taken together the cost of Insurance depends upon the ratio of the company in which you insure. And the best proof of inherent vitality is the low ratio of claims in the past. The song Messenger tells the story of how a chorister made $500 by singing the Battle Cry of Freedom.

I was chorister at Dr. C's church in O—, New York, when this famous song appeared. I am sorry to say our church had the reputation of being coppers, and deserved it, too, with the exception of a very few, who by contrast seemed to be the staunchest kind of union men. One of these, Col. J. E. L—, who never could get enough of the new song, came across me one Saturday afternoon, and slapping me on the shoulder, said: 'I'll give you $500 if you'll sing the Battle Cry of Freedom during the service in church to-morrow.' I thought this too great an offer to be declined, as I knew he was not only abundantly able but just the man to do such a thing; so I set to work to arrange for it. This was soon accomplished, and it was kept an entire secret from all but the few that were to join me. O, I forgot to say that I asked one of the deacons who was all right if I had better do it. 'Yes,' says he, 'sing it if it drives every critter out of the shed.' So, at the time I had chosen when we were to sing a voluntary 'Yes, we'll rally round the flag' came thundering down on the copperheads of the congregation. Such a commotion you never saw. The union men clapped their hands in the most ecstatic manner; the others raged but it was no use; the thing was done, and could not be undone, and the union cause received a new and vigorous impulse—and I a check for five hundred dollars.

A severe rebuke of intemperance is administered by Bishop Bayley, of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Newark, N. J. Addressing the clergy, the Bishop says: 'I am compelled to call your attention in a particular manner to the dreadful sin of drunkenness. This horrible vice, so destructive alike to body and soul, as we all know, making the most fearful ravages among our people. It may be said to be the chief cause of the sins they commit, and of all social evils and discomforts under which they labor. I am determined to make use of the most severe measures against all who are addicted to this scandalous and destructive vice; and, if they continue in the practice of it, they must do it at outcasts from the Catholic Church, who have no right to the name of Catholic while they live, nor Christian burial when they die.'

At the late election, the vote of a light mulatto, by the name of Silas Willis, was refused by the trustees of Mad River township, Clarke County, under the democratic visible admixture law of last winter, whereupon the said Willis brought suit against the said trustees, in the court of common pleas of Clarke county, the result being a verdict for $275 in favor of the plaintiff.—Beacon.

A San Francisco paper has found out that the Pacific railroad is not an unmixed good. It has been the means of introducing sharper competition into almost every department of trade, and local interests have thereby been injured. Some manufacturers in San Francisco have already been compelled to discharge half their hands. The goods they produced can be brought from the eastern states and sold 'at a lower rate than will the afford California manufacturer a living benefit.'

Cabbages, if not marketable at remunerative prices make excellent milk producing fodder. Put them in the barn cellar or in trenches for winter use. All decayed leaves must be stripped off and given to the hogs or the milk will taste.

Potatoes kept in pits in the open ground must have free ventilation at first, which should be reduced as the weather grows colder, and just before the ground freezes up solid, the heaps must have their last coat of earth, and not before.

'Did you ever give a boy a theatre check?' inquired Jones the other night. 'Never.' 'Ever heard of its being done?' 'No.' 'Well, it never was done but once. A great many years ago a man coming out of the theatre gave a boy a check. The boys heard of it, and they have been waiting for that man ever since.'

There was an old story of a Lord Mayor of London who went out courting in a three cornered hat, jack boots, and arrayed with a sword. On hearing a cry of 'The hare comes, the hare comes!' his lordship, drawing his sword said, 'Let it come; I thank my God I fear it not.'

II Gaylord, treasurer of the Ayndale relief fund, acknowledges receipts to November 4th, of $81,237 30. This fund has been disposed of as follows: Deposited in the Wilkesbarre bank on call at 5 per cent, $19,906.00; paid to widows and orphans, $10,723.10; invested in U S bonds, $28,943.75; invested in railroad bonds, $9,000; balance in hand, $12,665.05, to be invested in a few days in railroad bonds.

Two young ladies in a certain house in town the other night were heard singing as follows:

'Oh for a man!
'Oh for a man!
'Oh for a man—sion in the sky!
Before they could get and further two young bloods outside responded:
'Oh for a gal!
'Oh for a gal—lon of old rye.'

A married lady being asked to waltz gave the following sensible and appropriate answer: 'No, thank you, sir; I have hugging enough at home.'

The song Messenger tells this story of how a chorister made $500 by singing the Battle Cry of Freedom.

I was chorister at Dr. C's church in O—, New York, when this famous song appeared. I am sorry to say our church had the reputation of being coppery, and deserved it, too, with the exception of a very few, who by contrast seemed to be the staunchest kind of union men. One of these, Col. J. E. L—, who never could get enough of the new song, came across me one Saturday afternoon, and slapping me on the shoulder, said: 'I'll give you $500 if you'll sing the Battle Cry of Freedom during the service in church to-morrow.' I thought this too great an offer to be declined, as I knew he was not only abundantly able but just the man to do such a thing; so I set to work to arrange for it. This was soon accomplished, and it was kept an entire secret from all but the few that were to join me. O, I forgot to say that I asked one of the deacons who was all right if I had better do it. 'Yes,' says he, 'sing it if it drives every critter out of the shed.' So, at the time I had chosen when we were to sing a voluntary 'Yes, we'll rally round the flag' came thundering down on the copperheads of the congregation. Such a commotion you never saw. The union men clapped their hands in the most scriptural manner; the others raged but it was no use; the thing was done, and could not be undone, and the union cause received a new and vigorous impulse—and I a check for five hundred dollars.

A severe rebuke of intemperance is administered by Bishop Bayley, of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Newark, N. J. Addressing the clergy, the Bishop says: 'I am compelled to call your attention in a particular manner to the dreadful sin of drunkenness. This horrible vice, so destructive alike to body and soul, as we all know, making the most fearful ravages among our people. It may be said to be the chief cause of the sins they commit, and of all social evils and discomforts under which they labor. I am determined to make use of the most severe measures against all who are addicted to this scandalous and destructive vice; and, if they continue in the practice of it, they must do it as outcasts from the Catholic Church, who have no right to the name of Catholic while they live, nor Christian burial when they die.'

At the late election, the vote of a light mulatto, by the name of Silas Wills, was refused by the trustees of Mad River township, Clarke County, under the democratic visible admixture law of last winter, whereupon the said Wills brought suit against the said trustees, in the court of common pleas of Clarke county, the result being a verdict for $275 in favor of the plaintiff.—Beacon.

A San Francisco paper has found out that the Pacific railroad is not an unmixt good. It has been the means of introducing sharper competition into almost every department of trade, and local interests have thereby been injured. Some manufacturers in San Francisco have already been compelled to discharge half their hands. The goods they produced can be brought from the eastern states and sold 'at a lower rate than will afford California manufacturer a living benefit.'

Cabbages, if not marketable at remunerative prices make excellent milk producing fodder. Put them in the barn cellar or in trenches for winter use. All decayed leaves must be stripped off and given to the hogs or the milk will taste.

Potatoes kept in pits in the open ground must have free ventilation at first, which should be reduced as the weather grows colder, and just before the ground freezes up solid, the heaps must have their last coat of earth, and not before.

'Did you ever give a boy a theatre check?' inquired Jones the other night. 'Never.' 'Ever heard of its being done?' 'No.' 'Well, it never was done but once. A great many years ago a man coming out of the theatre gave a boy a check. The boys heard of it, and they have been waiting for that man ever since.'

There was an old story of a Lord Mayor of London who went out courting in a three cornered hat, jack boots, and arrayed with a sword. On hearing a cry of 'The hare comes, the hare comes!' his lordship, drawing his sword, said, 'Let it come; I thank my God I fear it not.'

II Gaylord, treasurer of the Avondale relief fund, acknowledges receipts to November 4th, of $81,237.50. This fund has been disposed of as follows: Deposited in the Wilkesbarre bank on call at 5 per cent. $19,906.00; paid to widows and orphans, $10,723.00; invested in U S bonds, $28,943.75; invested in railroad bonds, $9,000; balance in hand, $12,665.05, to be invested in a few days in railroad bonds.

Two young ladies in a certain house in town the other night were heard singing as follows: 'Oh for a man! Oh for a man! Oh for a man—sion in the sky! Before they could get and further two young bloods outside responded: 'Oh for a gal! Oh for a gal—lon of old rye.'

A married lady being asked to wait, gave the following sensible and appropriate answer: 'No, thank you, sir; I have hugging enough at home.'

An invalid disturbed all the inmates of his boarding house recently, by imitating a dog. When asked why he did it he said that he had been ordered by his physician to use Port wine and bark.

Dickens says: I have known vast quantities of nonsense talked about bad men not looking you in the face. Don't trust the idea. Dishonesty will stare honesty out of countenance any day in the week if there is anything to be got by it.

He whom God protects, to him even a spider's web becomes a wall; but from whom He withdraweth His hands, unto him thick walls become as cobwebs.

An old sea captain used to say that when abroad he did not care how he dressed, because nobody knew him. And he did not care how he dressed at home, because everybody knew him.

Vice-president Colfax says: 'Twenty five years' experience has convinced me that the best, wisest and safest rule for all, young and old, and even more especially those in public life, is total abstinence from all that can intoxicate.'

Traces of ancient cities arranged in streets running at right angles to each other, but covered several feet deep with sand, have been discovered in Nevada. The stones had evidently been cut with hard tools, although their forms were nearly destroyed by the lapse of centuries.

Dispose of all sorts of rubbish, and do up every job that will save an hour's work in the spring.

The state debt was reduced $131,900, during the past month.

Gov. Chamberlain has appointed Hon. Lot M. Morrill, U. S. Senator, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Fessenden.

A bloody tragedy occurred recently at the little town of Mitchellville, Tenn., near the Kentucky line. Two citizens and a man named Morris Jones, a tavern-keeper, became involved in a desperate fight, during which pistols were brought into play and the parties were mortally wounded. Whisky the cause.
